THE SYDNEY SALE.

VIGÉE LE BRUN.

6,600gs. FOR A PORTRAIT.

In the description which appeared in The Daily Telegraph on May 31 of the Sydney possessions in the old home of the Marsham Townshends at Chislehurst, especial attention was directed to a charming portrait by Madame Vigée le Brun of the fair artist herself, presented to the last Earl Sydney by the Empress Eugénie in memory of the Prince Imperial.

Yesterday, in the first day's sale of the Frognal collections on the sport, conducted by Messrs. Knight, Frank, and Rutley, the highest price ever obtained for a work by this famous woman painter at a British sale, 6,600gs., was realised. In times of less stress it is probable that this sum would have been exceeded, but it must be accounted astonishing nevertheless, and proves that in high art dealing there is a gallant band of international optimists.

Saved from the Lusitania, Mr. George Kessler celebrated his good luck by winning this beautiful portrait. Accompanied by the well-known Paris dealer, M. Jacques Seligmann, he countered every challenge in the bidding made by his chief antagonist, M. Wildenstein and M. Coureau, and in the end had apparently to beat a commission left on the auctioneer's book. It was a successful entrée, and recalled the personal triumph of Mr. Martin Holloway at Christie's on May 13, 1882, when he won Edwin Long's "Babylonian Marriage Market" at 6,300gs. Such are the vagaries of fashions in collecting.

Millais used to say that he would like to sink half his pictures to the bottom of the Atlantic, if he could have chosen the half to go. Madame Vigée le Brun probably never thought of such a drastic preference. She loved the life of a painter too much for that. Married at 15 to a dealer, she was elected to the Académie Royale at 28, after a triumphant round of visits to Belgium, and on the backing of Joseph Vernet. Taken up by Marie Antoinette, she painted twenty-five portraits of this unhappy Queen, one of the best of which is at Darmstadt.

GREAT FRENCHWOMAN PAINTER.

Her "Duchesse de Polignac" epitomises the fascination and charm of the noblesse before the Revolution. In the Doucet sale in Paris, 1912, that capture of eighteenth-century espièglerie, "Madame Grant" (afterwards the wife of the great Talleyrand) brought the astounding sum of 440,000f.

This Madame Grant, by the way, was the daughter of Captain Worley, of Poudicherry, and was married at 15 (like Vigée herself) to a Swiss trader of the name of Grant. Her beauty and wealth made her the rage in Calcutta and London, and on her visiting Paris during the Consulate she became the reigning beauty. Napoleon arranged the marriage with Talleyrand, but the pair shortly separated.

The portrait sold yesterday of the artist herself is one of many self-executed examples, but it is one of the finest, and a larger picture than the "Madame Grant" or that of the painter in our National Gallery, costing only £600 in 1897, being 42in by 33in. The Lyne Stephens Vigée le Brun, "Lady on a Divan," nearly the same size, 41in by 32in, realised 2,250gs in 1895, and in 1912 the small "Duchesse de Piennes" made 2,400gns. The Louvre Vigées are portraits of herself and daughter, and of her artist friends Robert and Vernet.

It is interesting, too, to recall the fact that her 1783 diploma picture was "Peace bringing back Plenty." During the Revolution she travelled abroad and painted, among others, Lady Hamilton (as a Bacchante), Madame de Staël (as "Corinna"), and Madame Catalani at the piano. Between 1802 and 1805 she lived in England, eventually returning to Paris, and dying in 1842 at the ripe old age of 87. This Sydney portrait, painted in 1782, the year before her election to the French Academy (she subsequently met her sister British Academician, Angelica Kauffman), shows her in the plenitude of her young beauty, in white dress, lace collar and cuffs, standing with her left arm resting on a balustrade, holding a garland of flowers. Her reputation as an artist can safely be left with this charming composition, in which she is nearer to Fragonard than to her favourite Greuze.

£3,600 FOR A GAINSBOROUGH.

The Gainsborough half-length of Miss Marsham, 29in. by 24in., also found favour yesterday, although some keen judges feared that the delicate picture had suffered from neglect. At £3,600 it fell to "Mr. Milton," and the Romney portrait of the second Viscount Sydney, Lord of the Admiralty and High Steward of Yarmouth, realised 750gns., Reynolds's striking portrait of George Selwyn, the wit (Vigée le Brun thought his pictures "unfinished"!), bringing 700gns. The three-quarter length portrait by the Rhode Island artist, Gilbert Stuart, of the first Viscount Sydney reached 130gns. (Agnew), and the half-length by the same, 180gns. The Zoffany group of the Farrington family was sold for 260gns., and the chief Lely was a portrait of a youth of the Bettinson family, 170gns. Pictures by John Wootton were once famous with our sport-loving nobility. He used to paint fine landscapes with favourite horses and hounds. Sometimes Hogarth would insert the figures of sportsmen in these. Yesterday a Wootton composition of Sir Robert Walpole in green hunting costume, with a groom and hunter, and a pack in the foreground, realised 280gns.

NOTE.

THE dispersal of this Collection in June, and the sale of the Estate of some 1,800 Acres later in the season, will break the connection of this district with an ancient Family who have been in occupation of Frognal for many generations.

The Manors of Chislehurst and Scadbury, in which the mansion of Frognal is situated, can be traced back to Royal ownership, and later to the family of Earl Warwick the King-maker. An ancestor of the late owner, in the person of Sir Richard Bettinson, bought the estate, about the time of the Restoration, from Sir Thomas Walsingham, a lineal descendant of the famous Sir Thomas Walsingham, Secretary to Queen Elizabeth, whose family held the property for 245 years. Sir Francis Walsingham's daughter married Sir Philip Sydney, who was fatally wounded at Zutphen.

The Portraits at Frognal commemorate many distinguished connections of the Family. In later days, probably the most prominent of the occupiers of Frognal was Thomas Townshend, the first Earl Sydney, who was Leader of the House of Commons in 1783, and whose cousin, Charles Townshend, was the Chancellor of the Exchequer whose Stamp Act brought about the American Revolution. Thomas Townshend took a prominent part in arranging the terms of peace with America, and, on the fall of the Government, the King raised him to the Peerage. His daughter married Lord Chatham, elder brother of William Pitt.

A year after Townshend's elevation to the Peerage as Viscount Sydney, having succeeded Shelburne at the Home Office which in those days had the control of the Colonies, the newly discovered harbour of Sydney in Australia was named after the minister.

Some interesting contemporary views of Sydney, at Frognal, afford a striking contrast to the Sydney of to-day.

The Library is enriched by many important Holograph Letters of the King and the Cabinet on American affairs.

Many generations of the Townshends, and their connections, have contributed to the extensive and well-known Library at Frognal, which is unusually rich in Tracts on America. The remarkable Fourteenth Century Horæ in the Library, which appears to have been bound up in the reign of Henry VIII, contains considerable details of the Family Pedigree.

£6,930 FOR A PORTRAIT.

LUSITANIA SURVIVOR'S PURCHASE.

Messrs. Knight, Frank, and Rutley began yesterday the sale of the Sydney collection at Frognal, Chislehurst, the former home of Thomas Townshend, first Earl Sydney, leader of the House of Commons in 1783, after whom Sydney, in Australia, was named.

Yesterday's sale, which realized nearly £15,000, consisted chiefly of family portraits and other pictures, only a very few of which were artistically important. The principal lot of the sale was a beautiful portrait of Mme. Vigée le Brun, by herself, three-quarter length, in a white dress with lace collar and cuffs, holding a garland of flowers, with a wreath of flowers and ostrich feathers in her hair; fully signed and dated 1782. This picture was presented by the Empress Eugénie to Earl Sydney in memory of her son, the Prince Imperial. Mme. le Brun painted many portraits (some in duplicate) of herself, but this is apparently different from all the others and seems to have escaped the notice of the artist's many biographers.

It brought many prospective buyers, among others M. Jacques Seligmann, of Paris. Bidding started at 1,000 guineas, and at 6,600 guineas the buyer was announced as Mr. George A. Kessler, the New York champagne merchant, well known for his entertainments in London and New York. Mr. Kessler was one of the survivors of the Lusitania disaster and was rescued after being in the water for some hours. The price is the highest ever realized by a work of this artist in England, but higher ones have been reached in France, notably at the Jacques Doucet sale two or three years ago.

The second highest price of the day was paid for Gainsborough's portrait of Miss Marsham (presumably Miss Harriet Marsham, 1721-96, daughter of the first Lord Romney) in a white dress, dating from about 1770; this was started at 100 guineas, and at £3,000 was knocked down to "Middleton," and is believed to have been bought for a member of the Townshend family. Romney's portrait of John, second Viscount Sydney, in a blue coat and yellow vest, painted in 1782, fetched 750 guineas (Ellis), and Sir Joshua Reynolds's portrait of George Selwyn, painted about 1761, for which the artist received 20 guineas, sold for 700 guineas (Wilson).

Two portraits by Gilbert Stuart, the American artist, of the first Viscount Sydney sold for 130 guineas (Maggs) and 180 guineas (Henry Stevens, Son, and Stiles, the American agents), and John Wootton's portrait group of Sir Robert Walpole for 250 guineas (Charles Davis)—another version of this picture belongs to the late Sir Walter Gilbey and will be sold next Friday; and two small pastel portraits by Daniel Gardner of the Hon. H. D. H. Burton and Miss A. P. Smyth (afterwards Mrs. Charles Townshend) were bought by Messrs. T. Agnew and Sons for 120 guineas.

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

FIRST.—The highest bidder to be the buyer; and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders, the lot in dispute shall be immediately put up again and re-sold, or not, as the auctioneer may decide, who is also to regulate the biddings and be the sole arbiter. The vendors reserve the right of bidding by themselves or agent, and of withdrawing any lot or lots.

SECOND.—The purchasers to give in their names and places of abode, and to pay down, if required, 5s. in the Pound, or more, in part of payment, or the whole of the purchase-money, in default of which the lot or lots so purchased to be immediately put up again and re-sold.

RAGLAN SALE ENDED

NEARLY £10,000 REALISED

800gs FOR A LAWRENCE DRAWIN

Perhaps no painter ever lived who gave more jealousy and criticism than Sir Thom Lawrence, the accepted fashionable portra painter of his time; and posthumous vindi tion came only after the French had d covered his real fascination. But as a pencil of beauty's eyes he was always admired, a a fine drawing by Lawrence has never fail to attract. As anticipated in these colum yesterday, the Lawrence drawing of the thr Mornington sisters caused a furore in t Raglan sale. In the Somerset drawing-room Chesterfield-street it used to hang over one the now famous Victor la Croix commo destined for America.

The Raglan family intervened yesterday prevent this Lawrence from also bei shipped. Mr. Hazell Vicars, Mr. Frank Sail Mr. Partridge, and others (with a Westwa look in their eyes) tried hard, but at 800gs t drawing was saved by Mr. Cullum, acting t the family. The three fair sisters portrayed Lawrence in 1814 were the Hon. Mrs. Bag Lady Fitzroy Somerset (wife of the Crime Raglan), and Lady Burghersh, the mother Raglan's future aide-de-camp. The drawing 19in by 15in, and Captain Wallace gave 1 for a stipple engraving of it.

The drawings by John Downman, t found favour. When Lord Raglan was th years of age, and known as Fitzroy Jam Henry Somerset, he and his brother, Ju Thomas Henry, the sons of the fifth Du of Beaufort, were sketched in 1791. T this interesting Downman drawing Lady Mo gave 200gs, and it is worth recalling that 1910 a similar Downman drawing of the Lad Somerset fetched the same amount.

A second Downman portrait, dated 1784, Lady Charlotte Villiers had evidently attrac the attention of Mr. George Grossmith, a the popular actor, bidding in person, had t satisfaction of winning it at 205gs. A port by W. Wood—a pupil of Lawrence—of t Hon. Mrs. Pole realised as much as 14 (Somerset). At the conclusion of the two da dispersal by Messrs. Knight, Frank, a Rutley, the varied contents of the house total over £9,400. Few people privileged to v this little Mayfair house could have drea that it contained such covetable works of a The various pieces of Chelsea fetched 9 a Sèvres tea set, 71gs; a pair of Louis Qui celadon dolphins, 46gs; a rather worn W coster tea service, 48gs; a few Fren plaques, presented to the first Lady Rag 52gs; a Sèvres dinner service, 46gs; a W caster cup and saucer, 36gs; and the old bra clock in the hall, 26gs.

is as if one mentioned the Crusades o name the Crimean War, of only sixty
s. On Thursday and Friday, however, ie will have the opportunity of viewing
schold gods of the famous Lord Raglan, e left them to his kinswoman, the late atherine Somerset. One hears much ils of war nowadays. On June 7, 1855, a fortnight before the death of Raglan, nal Pelissier, and Omar Pasha (qv. in ce, and one of the first objects to he attention of a representative of The elegraph yesterday at 8, Chesterfield-was an engraving illustrating the scene hough there are many souvenirs of days, such as drawings of headquar-Sebastopol, and, further back still, of se in which Raglan's arm was ampu-ter Waterloo, the intimate and historic of these must give way at auction to ortance of the French furniture, col-Raglan in Paris, when he was servhe Embassy, between 1816 and 1819.

BEAUTIFUL FRENCH FURNITURE.

In the midst of quaint Victorian surroundings these dainty examples of the inspired work of French ébénistes appeared, at first sight, somewhat strange, yet the atmosphere of the place seemed to breathe home, and soon the incongruity of a Louis commode under a plush-framed mirror failed to distract. Now and again a Lawrence or a Downman drawing happened to hang over one of these exquisite pieces, and the proper harmony was at once felt. But the experts will see to these surroundings. The beautiful tapestries on the tables and the rest will be valued for themselves. In the Oppenheim sale two years ago we saw how highly these small pieces of delicate design and grace were recently valued, and many of these Raglan examples are quite as fine, and recall the rare pieces seen in the Cavendish-Bentinck dispersal in 1891. Even a broken-down Louis XVI. oblong parqueterie writing-table fetched 540gs in the sale of the late Lady Dorothy Nevill's "few things" two years ago.

The Raglan French furniture is, moreover, in excellent condition, and one Louis Quinze parqueterie commode made by the maître ébéniste, Robert Victor Le Croix, in 1757 still has affixed to it the sale sign of the Couronne d'Or. And even an English cottage pianoforte near a kingwood commode seemed quite charming. Fine old Chelsea and Derby plates abound in all corners, and there are several pieces of beautiful Sèvres presented by the céramiste Feuillet to the first Lady Raglan. Another rare object—suitable for an international museum—is a Louis Seize cut-glass inkstand in finely chased ormolu mounts, and in the hall a buhl bracket clock by Naudhin is early seen.

LAWRENCE DRAWINGS.

Of the many Lawrence drawings, the portrait group of Mrs. Hope, Lady Fitzroy Somerset, and Lady Burghersh, limned in 1814, is characteristic of the artist's tenderness of touch, and the portrait of Lady Burghersh and child will attract much notice, along with a pair of drawings by John Downman. Messrs. Knight, Frank, and Rutley will conduct the sale at 8, Chesterfield-street on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. The present Lord Raglan, who has inherited the collection, and who is the Governor of the Isle of Man, is grateful to help the War Needlework Guild of the island. He has accordingly given instructions that the collection may be viewed on Thursday and Friday next on the payment of half-a-crown admission, the proceeds to be devoted to the fund.

There will be many relics to awaken memories, and among the personal souvenirs of the Crimean commander are the iron-framed folding chair and table, used by him at his Sebastopol headquarters.

Sole Executor of the late Hon. KATHERINE SOMERSET
